FHWA Strategic Goal Area: Corporate Management Strategies, Customer/Partner Focus

Project Title: Tribal Transportation Training Video

Background: Tribal leadership and staff can often change to tribal members that do not have any experience with transportation funding and processes. The tribes need many improvements to their transportation system, but the process for developing and funding transportation projects can be complex.

Objectives: A video documenting the transportation funding and programming process would be a valuable training tool for tribal leaders and staff. Proposed benefits of this training video would include:

- Training tool for tribal officials that would benefit BIA, FHWA, and the state DOT's.
- Give the tribes information on funding sources other than the IRR program.
- Communication tool to reach remote tribes that would not often work with the BIA or FHWA.
- Give valuable contact information so Tribal member can contact the right people for their transportation needs.

Status: This technology does not currently exist for the tribes, but the NPS and FS are using transportation education meetings in a similar manner.

Expected Products and Milestones by Fiscal Year: Training Video

Duration: Fiscal Year 2002

Estimated Cost by Fiscal Year: $75,000 ($50,000 for video production and $25,000 for BIA video program development)
